The International Journal of Coaching in Organizations (IJCO) has been published quarterly since 2003. It was developed by seasoned coaching practitioners to make a lasting contribution to the field of professional coaching and to help sustain the growth and maturation of professional coaching in organizations. Each issue has a specific theme and related articles are contributed by authors solicited by the issue's co-editors. All unsolicited author article manuscripts are peer reviewed and, if accepted, appear within three subsequent issues.

IJCO welcomes coaches, organizational coaching clients, educators and researchers to a unique forum that is focused on the disciplined practice of coaching within organizations. The mission of IJCO is to promote the sharing of wisdom, insights, theories, models and practices among professional coaches.

IJCO is the signature publication of Professional Coaching Publications, Inc. (PCPI, www.pcpionline.com). If you have administrative questions, please email our IJCO Office Manager (officemanager@ijco.info). For advertising and marketing inquiries, please email John Lazar, IJCO Co-Executive Editor (john@ijco.info). Please email unsolicited article manuscripts for peer review consideration to our IJCO Office Manager (officemanager@ijco.info).
